Five Miniatures
Composer Joaquín Turina was a Spanish composer of classical music. His work entitled “Miniaturas, Op. 52” for solo piano is the basis for this concert band arrangement of Five Miniatures arranged by John Krance. Interestingly, this arrangement does not place the movements in their original order, but rather a unique order for the piece, using movements 1-4 and movement 7. The movement titles Dawn, The Sleeping Village, Promenade, The Approaching Soulders, and Fiesta evoke vivid images of the scene depicted in each movement.

Where Never Lark or Eagle Flew
John Gillespie Magee, Jr., was 19 years old when he was killed in action on December 11, 1941. Magee was born in Shanghai, China, to an American father and a British mother, who both worked as Anglican missionaries. He came to the United States for a visit and, due to the war, was unable to return to Europe. The U.S. had not yet entered the war, so Magee joined the Royal Canadian Air Force. A poem in a letter to his parents shortly before his death has become a classic and the inspiration for this composition.

James Curnow was commissioned by the Graduates Association of Tenri High School Band in Nara, Japan, to write a piece for concert band in honor of its 50th anniversary. Curnow composed Where Never Lark or Eagle Flew with the subtitle, “Based on a poem by John Gillespie Magee, Jr.”

High Flight
Oh, I have slipped the surly bonds of earth,
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward, I’ve climbed and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds – and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of – wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence. Hov’ring there,
I’ve chased the shouting wind along and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.
Up, up the long, delirious, burning blue
I’ve topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace,
Where never lark, or even eagle, flew;
And, while with silent, lifting mind I’ve trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space,
Put out my hand, and touched the face of God.

Australian Up-Country Tune
Originally written for a cappella choir in 1928, Percy Grainger composed Australian Up-Country Tune for a performance at his own wedding. Although it is an original ballad, it was composed to sound like an Australian folk song. Grainger wrote:

“This piece is based on a tune I wrote in 1905 called ‘Up-Country Song’. In that tune I had wished to voice an Australian up-country feeling as Stephen Foster had with American country-side feelings in his songs. I have used this same melody in my Australian ‘Colonial Song’ and in my Australian The Gum-suckers’ March."

This arrangement of Australian Up-Country Tune by Glenn Cliffe Bainum opens in the key of F major with an introduction with the melody led by the tenor saxophone.
supported by a woodwind choir. As the piece progresses, more colors are added to the melody, creating a warm and rich texture. When the timpani is added in addition to the winds, a blossoming effect is created which allows the piece to bloom into full effect.

Country Gardens
Percy Aldridge Grainger (1882-1961) enjoyed a long and distinguished musical career as a concert pianist, composer, educator, innovator, and folk-song collector. Following his first public performances, he was hailed as a prodigy and soon emerged as one of the leading concert pianists in the world. His interest in world music was further inspired after attending a lecture by noted ethnomusicologist Lucy Broadwood in 1905, and by encouragement from his friend Edvard Grieg. He soon became an avid folk song collector and was among the first to use the Edison wax cylinder recorder. Over the next few years he was able to collect and transcribe over 400 songs, many of which he arranged and orchestrated, and now remain some of his best-known works.

His first piano arrangement of the English Morris dance tune Country Gardens was completed in 1918 as a birthday gift for his mother. It became extremely popular and was his greatest commercial and financial success, making Grainger very rich. He soon, however, began to detest the song as he was continuously asked to play it. Many times his audiences would not leave the concert until he obliged. Even this simple tune displays Grainger's genius with harmony, counterpoint, and color, and hopefully will entice musicians of all ages to enjoy the music of Percy Grainger!

Ridgeview Centrum
Alvin Singleton (b. 1940) attended New York University and Yale. In addition to his studies in the United States, Singleton also studied with Goffredo Petrassi at Accademia Nazionale di Santa Cecilia in Rome, Italy on a Fulbright Scholarship. After returning to the United States from Europe, Singleton became a Composer-in-Residence with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra from 1985-1988. Ridgeview Centrum was composed by Singleton in 2002 for the BandQuest® series. It was written to honor the students of Ridgeview Middle School (Atlanta, GA) band and their director Michael Gibson. Ridgeview Centrum incorporates a fusion of classical and folk music elements throughout the work.

Incantation and Dance
The present title of this work suggests a religious orientation, but not towards any of the established religions of a Western or Eastern culture. To the standard deities one offers prayers -- incantations are uttered in rituals of magic, demonic rites, and the conjuring up of spirits, evil and benign. The opening Incantation is full of mystery and expectation, wandering, unstable and without tonality.

The dance also begins quietly, but percussion instruments quickly begin, one by one, to drive a rhythmic pattern of incredible complexity and drive. As other instruments are added, the dance grows wilder and more frenzied. The brasses hammer out ferocious snarls -- the woodwinds fly in swirling scales. Here there is no pretty tune but a paroxysm of rhythm, a convulsion of syncopation that drives on and on, mounting in tension, to a shattering climax of exaltation.

Incantation and Dance was premiered as Nocturne and Dance by Herbert Hazelman and the Greensboro High School Band on November 16, 1960. The original version (saved by Hazelman) has several interesting differences, including 31 additional measures.

Program Note from Program Notes for Band
Hailing from Van Buren, Arkansas, Tina Christiansen is a graduate of Arkansas Tech University (ATU) where she earned the Bachelor of Music Education degree in the spring of 2020. During her time at ATU, Christiansen was an active performer as lead alto saxophonist in the ATU Jazz Ensemble, a saxophonist in ATU’s Symphonic Wind Ensemble, as well as a drum major for ATU’s Band of Distinction. She also served as an executive board member for the Beta Nu chapter of Tau Beta Sigma. Christiansen is currently pursuing a Master’s degree in Wind Band Conducting at Georgia State University and is a student of Dr. Robert J. Ambrose.

T. Devin Reid is currently an active musician and educator throughout the southeast. A native of Fayetteville, NC, Mr. Reid is a 2005 recipient of the North Carolina Teaching Fellows Scholarship. He holds a Master of Music in Wind Band Conducting from Georgia State University and a Bachelor of Music in Music Education from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

In 2018 Mr. Reid accepted the position as Assistant Director of Bands at Georgia State University in Atlanta, GA. Prior to this, Mr. Reid served as the interim assistant director of bands for two years. In this capacity he co-teaches the Panther Marching Band, conducts the Basketball Band, conducts the University Concert Band, teaches undergraduate and graduate level conducting courses, and supervises student teachers in the field among other duties and courses. Since his arrival, the GSU Concert Band has grown to become the largest instrumental concert ensemble at the university. With Mr. Reid’s direction, the GSU Panther Band performed in 2019 as part of the Pepsi Super Bowl LII Halftime Show, been accepted as a CBDNA Southern Region top marching band in 2020, and been accepted to perform in the 2022 Tournament of Roses Parade. Preceding to his appointment at Georgia State, Mr. Reid taught public school in Georgia and North Carolina and served as Graduate Assistant for the Georgia State University Bands. While teaching at James Kenan High School (NC), Mr. Reid grew the program from 0% to 10% of the school population in just three years. His ensembles performed at numerous events in and out of the community including the NC Muscadine Festival, NC PAS Day of Percussion and the Virginia International Music Festival.

Mr. Reid has presented clinics and workshops at the North Carolina Music Educators Conference, Georgia Music Educators Conference, Tennessee Music Educators Conference, South Carolina Music Educators Conference, Florida Music Educators Conference, American String Teachers Association National Conference and the Georgia State University Bands of Distinction Honor Clinic. He is a recurrent guest conductor at the International Euphonium and Tuba Festival. He is also an active concert band and marching band clinician and adjudicator throughout Georgia, Virginia and North Carolina.

As a performer, Mr. Reid is an actively sought-after musician. He was the percussionist for the popular brass quintet and Delos recording artist “Da Capo Brass”. Their debut album “From The Beginning” stormed the iTunes classical charts at #8 in January 2012. He has also been a member of the regionally acclaimed bluegrass band, “T.R. and the Boys” as baritone vocalist and mandolin player. They have three releases, and their most recent album; “Lonesome” features one of his original songs as the title track. He is a member of the National Association for Music Education, College Band Directors National Association, American String Teacher’s Association and is an endorser for Sabian Cymbals.

Mr. Reid is happily married to his beautiful wife Amy and they reside in Powder Springs, GA with their daughter Katelynn and son Ethan.
The mission of the Georgia State University School of Music is to preserve, promote, and advance humanity’s rich and expanding tradition of artistic music-making through performance, composition, education, and research in accordance with the urban and global initiatives of the University.

Students performing in this concert are supported by gifts to the School of Music. To donate please visit our giving page and select the fund of your choice. Your generosity makes all the difference. Thank you!
